

Man's Greatest Crimes Against the Earth

Post by Logan Reed

Saturday, 11 April 2009 16:00

From the Exxon Valdez oil spill to the 40 tons of methyl isocyanate spilled from a Union Carbide-owned pesticide factory in Bhopal, India, in 1984 that killed over 20,000 people, to deforestation, to pollution, to the murder of gorillas in Cameroon - DiscoverMagazine shares a sobering gallery of pictures reminding us of the devastating impact human activity can have on the planet. It isn't pretty but it is a call to action.

Image source: thecityfix.com